This picture was shot at Buckingham Palace, London. This symbolic picture stands as a metaphor for the confidence and strength characteristic of the feeling of being loved, cherished and nourished. Birds are imaginative creatures and have historically been a species of interest for research.